Yesterday the agent and his office force were busy throwing switches and handling cars which are transferred to other lines and rushed through. The officials of the road reuse to talk regarding the matter and their continued silence causes the strikers to fear that a move is on foor to hire men to take their places and that it will be spring on them almost any time. patch from St. Mary's, O., reports a similar state of affairs existing there.

Shors short nows.

A special from Lima says: Owing to the protracted strike on the Lake Erie and Western railroad the main shops of that railroad located here shut down yesterday. This throws three hundred more men out of employment, but as the road is practically tied up there was not work for them. The traffic of the line has wherever possible been diverted to competing roads, but hundreds of car-loads of grain are lying along the track within sight. General-Manager Bradbury returned home to-day and is now looking closely into the strike. Train-master Cook yesterday posted a notice to the men, stating that all who wished to do so could return to work. He gave them until midnight, and stated that after that hour those not returning would be discharged. This action has created some excitement among the men, but they are very quiet and firm, and show no signs of tweakening. Some threaten to hold possessenger trains if the management refuse their demands much longer.

Owing to an error in telegraphing the men who were to take the strikers' places lid not come to-day, but will arrive to-night or to-merrow. The strikers have been driven from the yards of the Peoria and Pekin Union road by deputy sheriffs, and are all drawn up in a long line along the Cincinnati, Eurlington and Quincy tracks.
